Attention News Editors:

Missed Connection Solution

Millions of People Around The World Can Now Reconnect

September 22, 2025 / For decades, people have been trying to reconnect with someone from their past using various tools like missed connections ads in newspapers or various websites. For the most part, this has been unsuccessful because it depends on someone seeing the ad on the days it appears in the newspaper or endlessly searching through countless different sites on the Internet.

A new Web APP called THE PLACE WE MET has solved the age-old dilemma of how to reconnect with someone. It allows anybody to set up a search by simply entering in a date range and short paragraph and then locking in a GPS search location (latitude & longitude, easily found on Google-Maps). Any date range can be used. However, a shorter date range helps narrow down results. Users can also set up a search radius up to a maximum of five- kilometers from a central GPS search location. Similar to the date range, a smaller radius helps narrow down results. If multiple matches are generated from the date range/location combination, the APP looks for identical words from the paragraphs of the different users. The more identical words, the greater likelihood a date/location match is the connection you're searching for.

The APP does all the work searching for matches based on the date, location and paragraph description. There is no need to waste time and energy endlessly checking for results. The system simply emails users when a successful connection is confirmed. Not having to constantly be looking is a bonus because the person you're trying to connect with might not think of connecting at the same time as you. It could be months or even years later when your missing connection decides they also want to find you. Within seconds after they enter in similar search parameters, both parties receive an email and can connect through the APP.

The Place We Met APP can be used to help organize high school reunions, find old work friends, college buddies, romantic interests or for a whole host of other applications. For those looking for love, it combines real life meeting with online matching. If there's somebody you see at the gym that you're too shy to initiate a dating conversation with, you can enter a search request. If both parties do this, they can connect. If feelings aren't mutual, your crush will never know you wanted to date them. There is zero chance of being rejected.

Contact: Barry Moore. 403-463-2004
info@theplacewemet.com www.theplacewemet.com